April 20, 2016

Dear AMAA Friends,

It is 2016 – and 101 years later we continue on facing a chain of dark moments in our history. Just as we, the Armenian Missionary Association of America, Inc. (AMAA), heeded the call 98 years ago, remain resolute in our mission to rally behind brothers and sisters in time of need. In light of the recent Azeri attacks, unprovoked and hostile, a dire need has arisen in Artsakh. In faithful service, we need to collectively support and demonstrate that we are unbreakable!

On April 2, Azeri forces launched a massive military strike into Nagorno-Karabagh. Among many military and civilian casualties, acts of atrocity were committed, such as the mutilation of members of the Khalapyan family and the killing of a 12 year old innocent boy.

As a result of shelling and air strikes, many homes and building structures were destroyed and precious lives lost. AMAA has committed resources for humanitarian help to aid the families of casualties and the countless number of those injured among the peaceful, indigenous population of the region and relief supplies to rebuild and protect their homes, families and the borders of the Homeland.

I ask that you respond to this call of action and stand by the families who are in need of our prayers and financial support to return home and rebuild. Please share your blessings and show your love by sending your donation for humanitarian relief and aid to the families who have lost their loved ones, and remain vulnerable. We stand in solidarity with them and pray for a swift and peaceful resolution to this devastating conflict.

Sincerely,

Zaven Khanjian

AMAA Executive Director/CEO
